NELSON, Aug. 8 (CP).—Rolling rocks make fire-fighting on Mount Nelson hazardous by day and suicide by night, but fighters on the lower slopes are successfully standing off the flames from ranch property and homes. Rocks, some of them a half-ton in weight, thundered down the precipitous slope, and in the quiet of the evening could be heard here, in the city, a mile distant.

CLOSE HOME OF GOVERNOR

Ontario Premier Proposes Abolishing Residence of King's Representative

TORONTO, Aug. 8 (CP). — Announcements dealing with maintenance of the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; investigation into operations of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway; financial reorganization of many municipalities under direction of Hon. David Croft, newly sworn-in Minister of Municipal Affairs; sharp curtailment of the operating budget of the Motion Picture Bureau, and resignations of members of the Niagara Parks Commission, came today from Premier Mitchell F.

The Premier said a resolution would be introduced in the next Legislature, "either by the Government or by a member," dealing with the Lieutenant-Governor's official residence. "It will be left to a vote of the representatives of the people."

he," said the Premier, "and I don't think there is much doubt of the result."

SALARY UNAFFECTED

The Province had nothing to say about the $10,000 salary of the Lieutenant-Governor, said the Premier, since the appointment was made by the Federal Government; but decision must be made whether the Province could continue maintenance of the official residence.

Formal announcement of the investigation into the T. & N.O. came with the Premier's statement that Armand Racine, of Windsor, had been named a compromiser. Mr.

Racine headed the recent inquiry into the Niagara Parks Commission, and the result of the probe was recommendation for drastic reorganization of the parks body. Mr. Hepburn said resignations of all remaining members of the old commission, except that of Harry Oakes,

Nothing definite could be learned yesterday concerning the plans of the Colwood Park Company, relative to the rebuilding of the grandstand, mutuel sheds, paddock and jockey room of the Colwood race track, which were completely destroyed by fire early on Wednesday morning.

Farmers in Peace Area

Doing Well

EDMONTON, Aug. 8 (CP).—Some farmers in the Peace River district will be able to clear $10,000 a section this season, on the basis of the following figures:

Wheat	100 bushels
Barley	100 bushels
Oats	100 bushels
Hay	100 tons
Stock	100 head
Land	100 acres

These holdings, with the race track itself, comprise the bulk of the property of the company and it is not considered likely these will be abandoned.

NOT TIME TO REBUILD

The next race meeting for Cochrane, B.C., will be held at the Cochrane race track, which is now being rebuilt.

of 75-cent wheat and 32-cent oats, according to C. A. Buchanan, district superintendent of the Canada Grain Commission, who has just returned from a 2,000-mile inspection trip in the northern part of the province.

Wheat, in many areas, will yield between 40 and 50 bushels an acre, according to Buchanan.

The origin of the fire has not been determined and an examination of the grain is being made.

JAPAN MAKES BIG INCREASE

Paper Industry Registers
Advance Over Earlier
Production

TOKIO, Aug. 8 (CP).—The paper manufacturing industry in Japan has been enjoying remarkable prosperity in recent years, and this has been maintained during the first half of the present year, with a constantly increasing output that bids fair to be maintained during the second half-year.

One of the reasons for the industry's prosperity is the enormously increased demand for wrapping paper consequent on the expansion of Japan's exports. Another factor is the increase in the demand for newspaper circulation and in the number and sales of periodicals and books. This is due to intensified interest of the Japanese—who are practically 99 per cent literate—in what is going on both at home and abroad.

FOREIGN STYLE

The output of foreign style paper during the first half of the year amounted to 781,184,000 pounds, according to the Japan Paper Mills Association, an increase of 10 per cent over the same period of 1933.

The Japan Paper Manufacturers Association, at a committee meeting recently, practically decided to increase production by three to four million pounds during August, due to the fact that demand for paper exceeded the supply during June, and this tendency is expected to be maintained throughout the rest of the year.

WAGE RULINGS TO BE APPLIED

Minimum Payments and Limited Hours Will Affect Mercantile Houses

Application of minimum wages and the eight-hour-day law to retail and wholesale establishments, known as the mercantile industry, will go into full effect this week, it was said yesterday, by officials of the British Columbia Industrial Relations Board. The following explanation of working hours was offered:

"Working hours of employees in the mercantile industry are limited to eight hours in the day and forty-eight hours in the week, unless there is a shorter working day, such as a half-holiday, when the hours thus saved may be applied throughout the balance of the week, provided that not more than nine hours are worked in any one day, or forty-eight in a week. Employees (in rural areas) may work ten hours on a Saturday, or the day preceding a statutory holiday, but not more than forty-eight hours during the week."

NO COMMENT OFFERED

The rate of minimum wages in the mercantile industry was previously published.

Provincial officials received without comment, yesterday, intimation that numbers of junior employees may be forced out through application of the rulings. It is unofficially understood that the board will make investigation of such complaints through its own officials.

Hon. George S. Pearson, who, as Minister of Labor, is head of the department, is holidaying in the East, at the conclusion of the official mission of the British Columbia delegation to Ottawa. He is expected back some time next week.

ALCOHOL LAMP CAUSES BURNS

Nurse at Home of Dionne
Quintuplets Receives Painful
Injuries

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 8 (CP).—A blaze from an alcohol lamp, that might have proved disastrous to the Dionne household, brought painful burns today to Madame Louise de Kirline, nurse for the seventy-two-day-old Dionne quintuplets. The fire came from a cleaning milk bottle nipples with the alcohol lamp, when her clothing suddenly was ignited. Before the blaze was extinguished, she suffered burns about her hands and limbs, and after treatment, was taken to the cottage camp provided for the nursing staff.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

A curious cancer or tourist was believed to be responsible for the uneasiness caused by the Dionne, Monday night. Suspicions of a kidnapping threat were not taken seriously by members of the household, but the day and night guard will increase their vigilance.

One man is stationed at the house during the day time, and another at night, to keep away the curious.

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP).—The World Baptist Congress, today, gave its approval in vigorous applause to a proposal that a world-wide plebiscite be held in forty countries to determine whether the people want to fight another war.

The suggestion was made by the Rev. Harold Camp, of Oakland, Cal., who said the Briand-Kellogg Pact should be made the basis of such a vote, all nations which adhered to it taking part.

"We shall do our duty in Germany to bring about an improved feeling," said Harry Fielder, speaking on behalf of German Baptists.

Captain Hynes, of the Los Angeles police intelligence department, did not mention the alleged filmland contributors by name. Neither did he enlarge on his statement concerning the alleged contributions.

Dr. C. H. Tozier, Boston, Is

"There are no finer colors anywhere than are to be found in the flowers and trees on Vancouver Island, and I have returned here to capture the beauties with cameras that photograph the natural colors," said Dr. C. H. Tozier, Boston, noted photographer and lecturer, last night, at the Empress Hotel. Dr. Tozier, accompanied by Dr. A. B. Atwood, Chelsea, Massachusetts, and Dr. N. T. Breed, Lynn, Massachusetts, arrived in the city yesterday, after a cruise up the West Coast of the Island.

More than 20,000 persons in the United States were privileged to see many natural color photographs shown by Dr. Tozier, last year, and many thousands more heard lectures by him on the beauties and wonders of this Island.

Explaining he had shown the photographs so often as to wear them out, Dr. Tozier said he had returned here for more. During the next five days he, with his associates, will seek out the many beauties of the city.

For his work, Dr. Tozier uses perhaps the most expensive equipment on the continent.

B.C. Better Terms Argument Received Attentive Hearing

Hon. Gordon Sloan, K.C., Back From Ottawa, Is Hopeful of Commission to Examine Province's Case at Length—Full Cabinet Heard Issue

HON. Gordon Sloan, K.C., who presented British Columbia's case for better terms under Confederation, before the Dominion Cabinet, in a two-hour recital recently, returned to the city yesterday from the East. At his office again, Mr. Sloan said he was very hopeful that the British Columbia request for appointment of a royal commission to examine the case at length, would be granted.

While there was no direct expression of opinion by the members of the Federal Cabinet, a closely attentive hearing was given on the issue, with many questions being asked as Mr. Sloan developed his case.

The object of the British Columbia delegation was to establish a prima facie case, which could be inquired into at length by a commission. Once before, in 1913, the Province got thus far with its proposals, but the war intervened. This time it is hoped of a different result.

CLAIM FOR MILLIONS
The extended argument, a summary of which was cited recently in The Colonist, alleges disparity of treatment received by British Columbia under several heads, and contends that sums aggregating in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 would rightly have been due British Columbia if it had received equal consideration as other provinces in the Federal partnership since Confederation.

turned two miles to lay a fresh course.

"This course carried us directly into the pressure again, as we discovered later, about a mile and a quarter to the west of the old trail.

SUPPLIES DROPPED
"We turned east again. It had turned dark. Suddenly we heard a crevasse let go under the machine.

"The tractor got across safely, but the second sledge (in tow behind) holding our rations, plunged into the crevasse, which was about six feet wide and ninety feet to the bottom.

"It took us a good part of the afternoon to dig it out. We had to unload the stores and haul them to the surface, bag by bag, and drum by drum.

"After we dragged the sledge out and restored the cargo, we got started again. We were using a searchlight on the tractor. Visibility was very poor. The wind picked up, and we decided to camp for the night.

WIND BLOWING
"In the morning, inches of drift had piled up around the sledges and tractor. The wind blew until 11 o'clock in the morning, when we got under way and found the passage across Amundsen Arm, about a quarter mile east from where we had camped. We traveled all day Sunday.

"There was only fair light from the returning sun in the forenoon and in darkness we lined up, our course with candle beams set at intervals of from half a mile to two miles apart.

"These beacons were made of snow blocks from three to six feet high. Lighted candles were set in the beacons and sheltered with snow blocks in such a way that they would not be blown out.

CANDLE BEACONS
"The candles served as range lights and with a compass we used them to line up our course. It was probably the most remarkable track of navigation I ever used in polar regions."

Dr. Foulter sat on top of the cab looking back at the line of beacons. His feet were draped over the side, shielded with them to the driver to bear left or right.

Every two miles there was a stop while new beacons were set up.

precious store of knowledge which comes down to mankind from pioneering forebears in a new land. No true estimate of value can be placed properly on such a work, save to suggest that with infinite patience he laid much of the foundation of British Columbia history.

From the early coastal explorations of pioneer navigators, the perilous overland voyages over rough mountains and down rapids, before transportation, from the lips of men and women who pioneered on farm or forest, Mr. Hosie gathered in an invaluable store of original source data from which some day the romantic history of this province will be written. ## Data and Dates Of Victoria and Vancouver Island

VICTORIA is justly proud of Beacon Hill Park, which lies in the heart of the city, for it ranks as one of the prettiest natural parks in Canada.

Spreading over an area of 154 acres, it is a good specimen of the open park land commented on by the pioneers and early comers to Victoria.

The park holds many delights for visitors, and from many points in the grounds wonderful seascapes and views of the eternally snow-capped Olympics are obtained.

Of special interest are the nursery gardens, Goodacre Lake, the swans, Chinese bell, bowling greens, cricket fields and the white bear, Ursus Kermode, which draws naturalists from all parts of the country to see him.

The park owes its name to the fact that there were in the early days two beacons at the top of the hill, which, when seen in a certain position, showed mariners Brodie's Ledge, where many a good ship had gone aground.

He found time to place the library and archives on a footing of unique efficiency, by adoption of methods of permanent worth. And, as many can testify, Mr. Hosie gave of his talents unparagoned in aid of every good cause. As a lecturer he was never in demand, while he held office in a number of the leading and worthwhile societies from time to time.

LONG IN SERVICE
Born in Scotland, on September 17, 1880, Mr. Hosie entered the provincial service on December 9, 1902, as an assistant in the Provincial Library, under E. O. Scholfield, librarian at the time. He rose steadily in the service, until, eight years ago, on July 14, 1926, he became Chief Librarian and Chief Archivist. A member of the Public Library Commission and other bodies dealing with the subject, Hosie was widely known in Canada and elsewhere, for his services. Recently he assisted in the assembly of the archives at Vancouver city, making a valuable report at the time.

BURNS' ADMIRER
For many years he was president of the Victoria Burns Club, and was one of its most popular members. Some time ago a group of fellow Scotsmen visited Mr. Hosie and made him a life member of the club in appreciation of his untiring work on its behalf.

Mr. Hosie was a past president of the British Columbia Historical Association, and a contributor to the proceedings of that organization. He was also past-president of the British Columbia Library Association. He held memberships in the Public Libraries Commission of British Columbia, Canadian Authors' Association, American Library Association and the Pacific Northwest Library Association.

A keen fisherman and a student of natural history, Mr. Hosie spent many happy hours in the great outdoors of Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

Mr. Hosie is survived by his sister, Miss Marian Hosie, with whom he resided at View Royal; three brothers, two in Scotland and one brother in Queensland, Australia.

VOICES SYMPATHY
Premier Pattullo voiced the regret of the British Columbia Government, yesterday, at the passing of Mr. Hosie. The Premier said:

"I deeply regret to learn of the passing of John Hosie. Personally he was of a lovable character and he was of a high character and was particularly well equipped and conscientious to a degree. He has made a notable contribution to the upbuilding of this department. On behalf of the Government I desire to extend sincere sympathy to the members of his family."

Generally throughout the Civil Service news of the death of Mr. Hosie was received with widespread and genuine regret. Popular to a degree, Mr. Hosie had endeared himself to all branches and all members of the provincial service. The library and archives staffs, under his personal direction, were deeply moved.

Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, at the head of the department, as Provincial Secretary, and other members of the Cabinet, associated themselves fully with what had been said by the Premier.

PROTESTING CUSTOMS COLLECTION IN CITY

Colonel Monk, after carefully considering the matter, decided that in order to focus attention in official quarters on the subject, he would protest the right of collection on the part of the customs' authorities, based on the continued existence in law of the proclamation of Governor Douglas. He gave instructions to such effect.

ALDERMAN BUSY
While Colonel Monk was taking definite action toward filing protest, yesterday, Alderman John Worthington was busy engaged in dealing with history in support of the resolution he is framing for presentation at the next meeting of the City Council, asking for the appointment of a committee to thoroughly explore the whole situation.

"An meeting with support on every hand," declared the alderman, yesterday. "Citizens generally are extremely interested in the subject and are offering me assistance. I have already had placed at my disposal a great deal of information relative to the advantages that might be derived by Victoria under a revival of the free port privileges enjoyed in the early days, before making a careful study of this data, as well as events leading up to the proclamation of Governor Seymour bringing the Act of Union into effect."

Alderman Worthington left last night for his Summer home at Shawnigan. He stated that he was taking a mass of documents with him to study while away. He will return to the city on Monday in time to present his resolution to the City Council.

new crews will be added and an attempt made to check the blaze with a new guard.

IN OTHER SECTIONS
The Sandy Creek fire was traveling fast, but high up. No action is being taken on it. Fourteen men are working to protect the White River timber limits, and ten men were sent into a new fire on the Little Moyle. The Cranbrook section was clear and in the international boundary section fires were quiet.

The Second Relief fire broke out in the afternoon, and according to one report, was 2,500 feet wide and 500 feet long.

One crew of fourteen men fighting the Ten-Mile Creek fire was cut off during the day, but turned up later. This fire will be fought determinedly, in view of the fact that it might endanger the South Slokan and Bonington power plants and power lines.

The Government engineers now say that the small savings bank trains children to be misers. Our observation is that it teaches their parents to be bank robbers.

SPACE FOR DISPLAY IS INCREASED

Eliminate Concessions in Main Building for September Exhibition

In order to accommodate comfortably all the entrants in the floral, fruit and vegetable competitions, to be held in the Main Building at the Willows Exhibition Grounds in connection with the seventy-third Provincial Exhibition, there, from September 10 to 15, inclusive, all former concessions have been abolished for the 1934 fair.

Such was the announcement made last night by Donald D. McTavish, chairman of the agricultural section of the fair.

Many entries had to be turned down last year owing to the lack of space. At the exhibition this year, there will be no Government display, thus leaving still greater space for competitors.

LARGE AREA
The space in the Main Building contains some 16,000 square feet, all of which has been spoken for in entries received at the exhibition office.

In addition to the regular contests, two flower shows will be held in conjunction with the exhibition. This feature was introduced last year by the exhibition management, and it proved so popular that it was included in the programme for 1934.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 10, 11 and 12, a flower show will be held for gladioli, asters, chrysanthemums and other fall flowers, while on the last three days of the week a contest for dahlias will be conducted.

Although the total number of entries has not been announced, it is expected that there will be a large number competing in the added feature of the annual show.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT
The agricultural exhibit this year will be one of the finest in years due to the advanced crop. Displays which ordinarily would not be ready for entry into the fair will be harvested by that time and take their place amid the other produce on show.

Perhaps the biggest entry list will be from gladioli. These flowers are particularly advanced, and according to reports many beautiful and full displays of gladioli will be offered for inspection during fair week.

P.N.W. SECTIONALS GO TO SEATTLEITES

on his excellent backhand stroking and caused his Seattle opponent to make many errors on this play, but was unable to cope with the steady game of his clever Seattle player. Dranga's victory marked the fifth time in the last six years that he has lifted the P.N.W. title, and on his tournament play this year he expected to get No. 1 ranking by the Pacific Northwest Lawn Tennis Association. He did not defend the championship last year.

Showing championship form all the way, the smart Rosenberg-Lea doubles team, of Seattle, stroked their way to the P.N.W. title in masterly fashion. The winners took the first set, 6-2, with Brown and Gline taking the second and sixth games. In the second set the Vancouver pair won the first game and then dropped six straight games, while the third and deciding set was won by the Seattle pair, 6-2. Then Brown won his service and Rosenberg finished the set and match while serving.

Marsh Gordon, Victoria, passed out of the singles competition after extending Wayne Sabin, leading Portland player, in the second set to 7-9. The Portlander scored an easy 6-1 victory in the initial set. In the next frame service with the score standing 10-9 in favor of the victor strengthened his game by the next frame and put up a determined fight before being eliminated in a sixteen-game battle.

UNDERWOOD WINS
Bob Underwood, Los Angeles junior star, who, on Tuesday, put Bob Hamman, United States Boys' National champion, and the Canadian runner-up, continued his march to the singles title with a two-set victory over H. Rosenberg, Seattle. Underwood opened serving and each player won his first service with the score standing 10-9 in favor of the winner on his last service. Here, Rosenberg faltered and lost his service and the match by a score of 11-9. Underwood won easily in the next set, the score being 6-1.

With the quarter-finals reached in the men's singles championship, Ross "Bud" Hocking, No. 1 ranking British Columbia player last year, is Victoria's lone hope. Hocking, in company with Wayne Sabin, Portland; Dan Roberts, San Francisco, and Oase Ryall, Vancouver, comprise the lower bracket of the quarter-finals. In the upper bracket is Mei Dranga, Seattle; J. R. Kinney, San Francisco; J. E. Brown, Vancouver, and Bob Underwood, Los Angeles.

Miss Caroline Deacon, Vancouver, present holder of the Canadian women's singles title, has reached the semi-finals in quest of Provincial honors, and is in the top bracket. The other semi-finalist in this bracket will be decided today, following the match between Miss DeVries, Los Angeles, and Miss J. Milne, Vancouver.

Miss Eleanor Young, Vancouver, co-holder of the women's doubles Canadian title and runner-up to Miss Deacon at Toronto, and Mrs. G. M. Gross, strong San Francisco player, form the lower semi-final bracket in the women's singles event.

EUROPE'S POWDER MAGAZINE

It is fairly obvious from recent events that the powder magazine of Europe has been transferred from the Balkans to Austria. The assassination of Dr. Dollfuss has so far had few serious repercussions because, for the moment, the Nazi menace in the country has been squelched. Nevertheless the Austrians are a Germanic race. It is possible that the majority of the people of that country would approve political union with Germany, but only when Germany has a normal regime. They do not want dictatorship and they are suspicious of Hitlerism in all its forms.

Austria constitutes the danger point of the future because Italy will not see that country fall into German hands without a determined and persevering struggle. There is evidence of this in the massing of Italian troops on the frontier immediately following the assassination of Dr. Dollfuss. For a short time there were prospects of foreign complications, even of war. The quelling of the Nazi revolt in Austria poured oil on the troubled waters.

It appears that the danger of the future lies in the disturbances which may arise among factions in Austria. What will eventually be difficult to visualize, but the fact emerging from the situation which led to the death of Dr. Dollfuss is that Italy is determined that the independence of Austria shall be maintained. That, too, is an object of British policy. Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, says that there is full recognition of the right of Austria to demand that there shall be no interference from any quarter. The danger of a new war flaring up lies, in part, in private German encouragement of the Nazis in Austria.

Officially, Germany is not interfering, but events may arise that will implicate Berlin unless there is sound and sane determination in the Hitler regime to avoid such foreign complications as would arouse the indignation of the principal Powers of Europe.

"PROGRAMME OF ACTION"

Britain's Labor Party has enunciated a new programme described as one of action. It is not necessarily the last word before the country is plunged in another election, because the Labor Party's politics are in a continuous state of flux. Up to date there have been a score and one policies designed to bring about a Socialistic state, and the probability is that scores more will be formulated, for Socialists are nothing if not flexible in their theories and so attract to their banners all those of wavering mentality.

The new programme is described by The London Times as "full-blooded or full-throated Socialism." It includes anything and everything—the immediate nationalization of the banks and public ownership and control of all sorts of industries. It wants the House of Lords abolished. If it omits anything at all it is outright advocacy of dictatorship without which Socialism would be impossible. The programme is designed to be achieved within the lifetime of a single Parliament, which is a large order in itself. To achieve that end it would have the Labor Party "armed with emergency powers of compulsion or dictation." That, of course, is equivalent to dictatorship.

The new non-stop policy provides for roughshod treatment of Parliamentary opposition. It is always to be expected in Socialism in practice that the constitutional rights of minorities will go by the board. It is only by such flouting of constitutional rights that it would be possible for a Socialistic Government to secure control of currency, banking institutions, the direction of capital investment and the control of every sort of enterprise. The party in fact wants to control everything, irrespective of the wishes of any section of the people. It bears an analogy to Nazism in its programme. Parliamentary procedure is to be changed, for a governing principle with Socialism is that its measures should brook no delay. In other words, there would be a sharp quillotine exercised on debate. The very fact that a Labor Party were elected to office is to be interpreted as furnishing a mandate for the putting into effect of all its whims and fancies, no matter what the actual issue of the election. That is a disquieting thought inasmuch as Labor Party programmes are of the kaleidoscopic variety. In commenting on what is proposed The London Times says:

"When a Labor Government is in office the House of Lords will be offered the choice between docile acquiescence in all the Government's proposals and extinction. The Parliament Act would be set aside, the constitutional rights of the Second Chamber disregarded and the Labor Government deeply involved in a constitutional crisis. This vast programme of action is the line of a general attack upon the existing order. It will finally separate the electorate into Socialists and non-Socialists, and there will be no room for divisions on either side."

MR. JOHN HOSIE

Gentle of character, possessed of an attractive personality and with courtesy marking all his ways, Mr. John Hosie will be keenly missed by all those who had the privilege of knowing him. His appreciation of his work as Provincial Librarian, the knowledge he brought to bear on the task and the long hours he devoted to its fulfilment will make the post a difficult one to fill. There was that about Mr. Hosie which immediately attracted friendships, some quality of trustfulness which his very appearance inspired and which grew with knowledge of him. The result was that he had many keen friends and a host of admirers who were always ready to speak a good word on his behalf, who rejoiced at the opportunity of converse with him, and who, as they learned to know him better, admired more and more the sunny spirit he radiated.

The Province has lost not only a faithful and competent servant but one usually well informed in the Librarian's task. Mr. Hosie was an eager investigator. He regarded his work as something which demanded a continual accumulation of knowledge; he pursued this path as a labor of love, and it was no unusual thing for him to go to different parts of the province to give addresses on old time happenings, about which he spoke so intriguingly because of the information he had amassed. The spirit of the pioneers was in his blood. He could always visualize the hardships which they encountered and overcome, and this attitude, which was inherent, was of immense help in the work of Provincial Librarian. Mr. John Hosie was an undoubted asset to the people of this province and of the Dominion. He has left a record in the library that will long stand as a monument to him. His passing will be mourned in a widespread way and the deepest sympathy. In which this newspaper joins, will go out to his sister and brothers who survive.

AFFORESTATION IN U.S.A.

The American Middle West has been suffering from a prolonged drought and so far there is no sign of relief in sight. Such a condition militates against the rounding out of the policies decreed by the New Deal. It was considered advisable by Congress to vote more than $500,000,000 as a drought relief fund. One plan devised by the Government of high value is that of afforestation designed to preserve the plains from intense heat and high winds. Such a plan would work untold benefits in the Canadian Prairies, but it is difficult to secure any action in this country.

In the American Middle West a wooded belt is planned 1,000 miles long, stretching from the Canadian border to Texas. The trees are to be planted in parallel strips a mile apart, the land between being left for cultivation. The conception is that thus perfect farming conditions would be created. The project is to occupy ten years and cost $75,000,000. At present $15,000,000 is being appropriated for the purpose. The new forest belt is expected to attract rainfall, to conserve moisture in the soil and to act as a protective screen against searing winds. It is expected, moreover, to avert serious economic and social consequences. In the plan 3,000,000,000 or 4,000,000,000 trees will be needed and the purchase of 100,000 square miles of agricultural land. The necessity of afforestation is being widely recognized in the United States. Perhaps nothing contemplated under the New Deal will prove of greater ultimate value to the life of the continent.

There is a scheme for electoral redistribution in Western Australia, and the effect of the change proposed would be to make Kalgoorlie an electorate equal in area to Victoria, New South Wales, Southern Australia and Tasmania combined. Kalgoorlie already comprises nearly 1,000,000 square miles in area. It takes eight weeks to cover, including 2,500 miles by sea, 3,000 by air and 7,000 by land.

THE SENSITIVE PLANT

A sensitive plant in a garden grew.
And the young winds fed it with silver dew,
And it opened its fan-like leaves to the light
And closed them beneath the kisses of night.

And the Spring arose on that garden fair,
And the Spirit of Love fell everywhere;
And each flower and herb on earth's dark breast,
Rose from the streams of its Wintry rest.

But none ever trembled and panted with bliss
In the garden, the field, or the wilderness,
Like a doe in the moonlight with love's sweet wont.
As the companion sensitive plant.

The snowdrop and then the violet
Arose from the ground with the warm rain wet,
And their breath was mixed with fresh odor sent
From the turf, like the voice and the instrument.

Then the pined wind-flowers and tulip tail,
And narcissi, the fairest among them all,
Who gaze on their eyes in the stream's recess,
Till they die of their own dear loveliness.

And the Nialad-like lily of the vale,
Whom youth makes so fair and passion so pale,
That the light of their tremulous bells is seen
Through their pavilions of tender green.

And the hyacinth, purple and white and blue,
Which flung from its bells a sweet peal anew
Of music so delicate, soft and intense,
It was felt like an odor within the sense;

And the jessamine faint and the sweet tuber rose,
The sweetest flower for scent that blows;
And all rare blossoms from every prime Grew in that garden in perfect time.

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

WAR

Sir—In reference to above, does it not seem that the only effective way of preventing war is by the possible and possible throughout the world, is to do as quickly as possible two things? First, to ask for the ordering of the order in every country, through the League of Nations, who are presumably against war, to forbid their respective governments taking part in any war outside their own frontiers. Second, to ask all the churches in Christendom, through the League, to urge their adherents not to take part in any war outside the frontiers of their own country. Having done this and made aggressive war impossible, to attack the root cause of war, namely, the false doctrine of the survival of the fittest, and never rest until mankind sees the folly of competing for the world, which is his through co-operation.

JOHN CHEETHAM.
R.R. 3, Victoria, August 6, 1934.

REAL PEACE

Sir—It is interesting to read the letter to the Editor regarding the Council of Youth, and to know that all are in accordance with a protest against war, but I fail to see how any protest can take effect unless the remedy is put into effect. The only real remedy for the peace of the world is clearly laid down in the Bible, in which we find God's laws for governing the world and His economic plan. These laws are as perfect as the plans and natural laws which govern the universe, and although people are taught to accept the latter, the former is the last thing to be thought of. We believe in Christ and Christ believed in the Old Testament, but the Old Testament is so often put aside as "out of date," yet in it is contained everything for peace, happiness and prosperity if the God-given laws are followed. We are all peace-loving at heart and no one wants war. I say some of the horrors of the last one and know what it means to see one's husband and relatives go—some never to come back, and the idea of another war is ghastly, but there is a way to prevent it. I do believe, and it is by teaching the Bible. The outlook for the young people of today is hopeless, no work, ambition unrealized and a future threatened by war, but there is a glorious heritage if they are given chance to know that "back to the Bible" is the only way to prevent the war which overshadows us.

RELIEF

Sir—In the July 31 issue of The Times appeared a letter by one Telfer Pemberton, criticizing a letter written to that paper by J. Irving, of the Workers' Welfare Association, as chairman of a recent work of that organization, wish to take issue with this gentleman's attitude re W.W.A. In the first place, the resolution complained of was duly passed on the floor of our meeting.

That Mr. Irving, who was not a member of our organization, should be allowed to speak at our meeting, and to make such a statement, is a disgrace. We are not a body of instructors, received, and he, as secretary, did only his duty. As far as work and wages are concerned and who (individually) voted for it, I can assure this gentleman that no one would be so stupid as to be guilty. If Mr. Pemberton had the welfare of the electorate at heart and intended to use the national credit of the country, why is he chasing up and down the Dominion, at the people's expense, looking for terms as he is?

For his timely reference to the full well he will never get? And, furthermore, he and his colleagues have been in office long enough to have done something or, at least, to have tried to alleviate the distress caused by unemployment. I think I can safely say that I never saw such bungling in road work anywhere else. I don't think it would be tolerated anywhere else.

People have had places in here for more than twenty years and have no road; they have to pack everything in on their backs. The only road we have here is of any importance is the Ucluelet-Long Beach Road, and I consider it a public disgrace.

By perusing maps of this Island, I have been driven to the conclusion that the only part the authorities ever seriously endeavored to open up is that part occupied by the E. & N. land grant.

Another thing I would like to draw your attention to is the fact that every other province I have been in had a system whereby the roads were laid out by that every person's piece of property faced upon a public highway. As far as I can observe this province has no system whatever. I admit that upon the mountainous land, roads cannot always run straight, but I see no reason to build horrible crooked roads upon level country. I think the people who were responsible for the bungling in this district should be dismissed from the Government employment.

WEST COAST ROADS
Sir—My attention was attracted to an editorial comment in the issue of The Colonist, of May 29, concerning a letter written by me to The Ottawa Journal. I feel quite pleased to know that you are interested in the welfare of this district.

I have been very busy in Canada. I was born in Ontario, and I think I can safely say that I never saw such bungling in road work anywhere else. I don't think it would be tolerated anywhere else.

People have had places in here for more than twenty years and have no road; they have to pack everything in on their backs. The only road we have here is of any importance is the Ucluelet-Long Beach Road, and I consider it a public disgrace.

By perusing maps of this Island, I have been driven to the conclusion that the only part the authorities ever seriously endeavored to open up is that part occupied by the E. & N. land grant.

DEFENCE OF YOUTH
Sir—Your correspondent, E. R. Ellis-Tucker, accuses youth of paganism. What is only youth? What about our "elderly statesmen," whose spirit of paganism was so prevalent at the Treaty of Versailles? What about our "elderly Christians" who receive dividends from armament firms? What about the paganism of the selfish, perverted forms of nationalism in many lands, so pregnant with disaster? What about the selfish paganism of those who refuse to give sympathetic and intelligent efforts to remove the ills of the present economic system, which are a constant menace to peace? If youth today is pagan, so are its seniors. Youth today is not one bit less pagan or less religious than youth of past generations; possibly it is more intelligent, and refuses to be the victims of inferior statesmanship and the selfishness of big interests. We thank the correspondent for his timely reference to paganism, only let us be fair and admit its prevalence among high and low, rich and poor, young and old. The ancient Christian churches and the newer sects, with their spiritual pride or snobbery, conservatism, narrow-mindedness and bigotry, have much to answer for in this respect. Far too many of the members seem to fail to exhibit those virtues of humility, love, sacrifice and nobility, which are the hall-marks of those who endeavor to follow Jesus, the Prince of Peace.

of Peace. Yes, it is easy to criticize. All of us have tremendous possibilities of goodness within us. Let us try and develop them by a daily, continuous contact with the ever-present Christ.

NO MORE WAR

Sir—I often find myself wondering what exactly people mean when they say "there must be no more war." Do they, before uttering such words, blindly refuse to recognize the chain of circumstances which made it possible for them to share the rights and privileges, to enjoy the fruits of the obligations, of a civilization of any given country?

Faintly glowing in the nebulae of shattered dreams, I sometimes hear the whispering of these words—"This war is a war to end war." The stark meaning holds me rigid in the awful truth, for the only war that will end war will be complete annihilation. For the nation, or group of nations who accept this principle of war to end war, obviously must be the last to survive—and not the other fellow—will have the final say; as it naturally follows that if we are to have no more war, the vanquished must be reduced to a perpetual state of helplessness, and the victors to an everlasting entente cordiale.

So, to submit their problems to the right of a people to extend their territory or business, so must they institute measures to protect and conserve the degree of success or failure depending entirely on the ability of those who possess or acquire the new interests.

How many, marching in the recent local peace parade bothered to analyze the emotions of any native Indian who may have witnessed their demonstration?

The Pilgrim Fathers drove the Indian from his native haunts; the French-Canadian and the United Empire Loyalist established themselves in this great Dominion. Shall we, who, accepting this heritage, cry, Hold! Enough! that we might, by our craven fear, announce to all the world that our people henceforth must be the lot of that most pitiful of all creatures, a drivelling, whining ingrate?

"Better to face the goal beyond our scaling Quiet at last, knowing the end has come,
Rather than with our lowered banners
To take the paths of safety leading home."

ARCHITECTURAL PROFESSION
Sir—With reference to the letter in today's issue of your paper signed by Karl B. Spurgin, I desire to give the correct details of the Architectural Institute's position in this matter.

On February 19 last a delegation of the Architectural Institute of British Columbia (of which I was a member) waited upon the Provincial Board of Public Works requesting that provincial work be allotted to local private registered architects. At this meeting it was suggested by the delegation that the work of the game branch might be handed over to the forestry division of the Department of Lands, and said flatly that no such suggestion had as yet been considered by the Cabinet.

Ultimate disposition of British Columbia game control has yet to be decided. Mr. Sloan declared, meanwhile the new board will carry on, with a possibility that its present personnel may be ratified in their appointments.

Attorney-General Says Forestry Amalgamation Plan Not Considered

Set up to administer the affairs of the British Columbia Game Branch upon retirement of A. Bryan Williams, former game commissioner, the board of three senior officials of the branch may be made permanent in its duties. It was indicated here yesterday by Hon. Gordon Sloan, K.C.

Mr. Sloan discounted suggestions that the work of the game branch might be handed over to the forestry division of the Department of Lands, and said flatly that no such suggestion had as yet been considered by the Cabinet.

Ultimate disposition of British Columbia game control has yet to be decided. Mr. Sloan declared, meanwhile the new board will carry on, with a possibility that its present personnel may be ratified in their appointments.

APPLES IN CAR MAY NOT MOVE

Car Loads of Fruit Held at Kamloops Under Prohibition of Marketing

Foretaste of what market regulation may mean at times to the individual was furnished yesterday at Kamloops, where, according to reports reaching the Government here, thirty car loads of apples, valued at around $40,000, stood on railway tracks under a ban against shipment East until August 13. The ban, it was said, was the result of an order of a Federal fruit inspector, who had adjudged the fruit immature.

Urgent appeals to the Provincial Department of Agriculture followed, but without avail, as the Province has no legal jurisdiction in the matter. It was explained that Dominion fruit inspectors have authority to hold up any shipment that does not in their opinion come up to legal requirements. In this instance it was alleged the apples had been picked too soon and were immature.

How immature apples, once picked, could go against Biblical precedent and add to their stature in box cars was a point not even experts of the British Columbia horticultural service would undertake to explain. Meanwhile 20,000 boxes of apples, neatly packed in thirty freight cars, remain as a problem in market stabilization efforts.

DEATH REMOVES AGED RESIDENT

Mrs. C. H. McDonald Succumb to Daughter's Home—Funeral Services Tomorrow

There passed away yesterday, Mrs. Caroline H. McDonald, aged eighty-seven years, widow of John R. McDonald. She died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James H. Dickson, 202 Raynor Avenue. Born in Prince Edward Island, Mrs. McDonald had resided in Victoria for thirty-three years.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Dickson; two brothers, Joseph and Bertram Haslam, P.E.I.; three grandsons and two granddaughters, and two great-grandsons. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery. Mr. Dickson, of the General Steamship Corporation, is in charge of arrangements.

Ships of Silver Line to Call at Additional Ports

Addition of Colombo and Bomba, as ports of call of the Silver Line, was announced yesterday by the Steamship Company, Inc., through the offices of its agents, the General Steamship Corporation, Ltd., San Francisco.

All Silver liners have now been equipped to carry passengers, and addition of these ports to the trans-Pacific service affords an even more interesting "vagabond voyage" than has heretofore been possible.

Vessels now proceed from the Pacific Coast to Manila, Iloilo, Cebu, Macassar, Sourabaya, Samarang, Batavia, Singapore, Belawan, Deli, Colombo and Bomba. Other Silver ships, after leaving Belawan, call at Penang and Rangoon and terminate their voyages at Calcutta. Return to the Pacific Coast is made over practically the same route.

In addition, Silver ships are operated around the world both west-bound and eastbound, giving passengers an opportunity to visit fascinating ports "off the beaten track" in the Far East and South Africa.

"To Help Others" is the inscription on the tag to be used on Saturday, by the Salvation Army, for its rescue work.

FRICITION OVER TROOP MOVEMENTS SETTLED

TOKIO, Aug. 8 (CP-Havas).—Friction between Great Britain and Japan over British troop manoeuvres in North China was eliminated by a visit of the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Clive, to the Foreign Office yesterday.

Following Sir Robert's conversation with Foreign Minister Hirota, the Foreign Office spokesman declared the manoeuvre question had been dropped.

The manoeuvres were the customary movements of treaty troops outside the Great Wall, but Japan had intimated the territory used was now part of Manchukuo and had objected.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD

There was a large congregation of mourning friends present at the funeral service yesterday afternoon for the late Mrs. Harriet Hitch, conducted by Rev. Canon Stocken. Her casket was covered with the many beautiful floral tributes received. The hymns sung were "Jehovah, My God, to Thee" and "Blessed Be Thy Name." The remains were forwarded to Seattle, where cremation will take place today.

Ira Dilworth Named Associate Professor On Faculty of U.B.C.

Will Be Teacher of English at University, Commencing in September—Harry L. Smith New Principal of Victoria High School

APPOINTMENT of Ira Dilworth, M.A., principal of the Victoria High School since September, 1926, as associate professor of English at the University of British Columbia, to succeed the late Professor F. C. Walker, is announced by the board of governors of the University. Mr. Dilworth will be succeeded as principal of the High School here, by Harry L. Smith, at present vice-principal of the institution.

In releasing Mr. Dilworth from his post as head of the Victoria High School, the city school board, although regretting his departure, feels that nothing should be done to impede a worthy educationist in advancing himself in his chosen profession. Trustee George Jay, chairman of the board, stated last night.

The post of vice-principal of the high school, which will be vacated by the promotion of Mr. Smith to the principalship, is a matter that will have to be dealt with later by the board. With respect to the filling of the vacancy, the staff by securing another teacher, it was explained to Trustee Jay that this would likely be left in abeyance until it was ascertained just what the attendance at the school would be, following the vacation. If it were not necessary, an effort would be made to carry on without engaging another teacher, he declared.

ON STAFF FOR YEARS
Mr. Smith has had a long and

credit association with the Victoria High School, having been a member of the teaching faculty there for a term of years, extending back to the war, and vice-principal for a number of years. For many years he has been a leading force in the school's Rugby activities, and enjoyed a lengthy playing career himself on local hockey and Rugby teams.

In the appointment of Mr. Dilworth to the faculty of the university, the city of Victoria loses a prominent educationist and a citizen who has taken a prominent part in and made a valuable contribution to the cultural life of the community. He was selected for the university post by the governors from a considerable number of applicants for the position.

TRAINED IN VICTORIA

The foundation for his scholastic training was laid in the city of Victoria by Mr. Dilworth. He attended the high school here, and later the old Victoria College. Later he attended McGill University, and graduated from that well-known institution of learning in Montreal. He took his B.A. course there, winning first class honors in French and English.

Following his graduation from the Eastern university, Mr. Dilworth returned to Victoria and was appointed a member of the high school staff here, in 1916. In 1919 he went to Harvard University, where he took, during 1919 and 1920, an advanced course in English, attaining his degree of Master of Arts with high honors and carrying off scholarships.

Again, in 1924 and 1925, he returned to Harvard and took his post-graduate course, having the advantage of studying under one of the best known English authorities in English, including romantic poetry, Irving Babbitt. Mr. Dilworth was again successful in carrying off scholarships at Harvard, completing his course with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at that institution.

RETURNED TO CITY
Later, he was assistant in Victoria High School for a year, and in 1926 was appointed to the principalship of the high school. In this position he has continued up to the present time, when he resigns to accept the post in the University of British Columbia.

Mr. Dilworth served as president of the Teachers' Federation of the province, and throughout his career as an educationist he has manifested the deepest interest in the advancing of the interests of the teaching profession.

In addition to his other accomplishments, Mr. Dilworth is a talented musician, and he has been very generous during his life here in assisting in every way in the fostering of a love for the highest and best in music. He has also lent his assistance in the promoting of dramatic art among the citizens, and in this field his activities have been of very great aid.

RECOGNIZE ABILITY
That the worth of the new member of the university staff is fully recognized in university circles is borne out by the letters which passed in connection with the making of the appointment.

In his letter recommending Mr. Dilworth's appointment, Dr. G. G. Sedgwick, head of the English department, addressed Dr. L. S. Klinck, president of the University of British Columbia, as follows:

"With Dean Buchanan's approval, I beg to submit a recommendation for the associate professorship left vacant by the much-regretted death of the late Prof. F. C. Walker."

"I recommend the appointment of Ira Dilworth, now principal of Victoria High School. Mr. Dilworth is a graduate of McGill University with the highest honors in English and French, and he holds the degree of Master of Arts from Harvard University, where he did two years of distinguished work. At Harvard he did special work in the Romantic Movement, under the late Prof. Irving Babbitt, and consequently he is specifically equipped to take over the major part of the work done by Professor Walker. Further, Mr. Dilworth has a most distinguished record as a teacher and as a figure in the public and educational life of this province. Last year he was president of the British Columbia Federation of Teachers. He is well known for his skill in public address and in the direction of musical education."

"My recommendation is that Mr. Dilworth be appointed associate professor of English, his duties to begin on September 1, 1934."

DEAN'S ENDORSEMENT
In an accompanying letter to the president, Dean Buchanan wrote as follows:

"Dr. Sedgwick is exceedingly anxious to have appointed, as successor to Dr. Walker, one who will be able, as far as possible, to make up for the great loss which the university has sustained in the much-regretted death of Dr. Walker. With his desire in this respect I heartily agree. We are both of the opinion that we are exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure Mr. Dilworth."

Professor Dilworth will begin his new duties in September. He will teach the same courses as his predecessor.

MONETARY PACT BEING PREPARED

Anglo-German Exchange Accord Expected Soon—Will Help British Cotton Trade

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP).—It was indicated tonight in official circles that a monetary exchange pact will probably be signed within ten days with Germany.

It was understood the agreement will enable Germany to obtain much-needed materials, such as cotton yarns, on advantageous terms.

German importation of British cotton has been cut off because of the inability of German buyers to meet exchange difficulties.

It was stated that Germany through the Reichsbank, will agree to turn over part of the foreign exchange owing to it here to British creditors having unpaid debts in Germany.

Recent negotiations have centred in Berlin.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If August 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m., and from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 12:45 to 2:45 p.m., and from 4:45 to 6:45 p.m.

This August 9 may require careful planning of your time if you expect to accomplish everything that you know should receive your attention. In a business transaction that might come up, where dissatisfaction over one phase of it may be expressed, you will display good judgment if, by making a concession, you can avoid an argument. You may find on this date that concise statements will prove far more advantageous than long dissertations. A fanatical type of individual may try and draw you into a religious or political discussion, which if participated in possibly may result in hard feelings. It is advisable to exercise the greatest amount of caution if money, in bills of large dimension, should be tendered to you, for there will be a large amount of counterfeit money in circulation. If written or verbal invitations of a social nature are extended to you, it will be tactful to avoid a breach of etiquette in delaying to accept or decline them promptly. Cupid's victims may suffer some pangs of disappointment unless they exercise the greatest care in selecting definite meeting places, and have a clear understanding as to the time they are to be there.

If a woman and August 9 is your natal day, you may find it beneficial and restful if every so often you have a change in environment. As a rule, people born on this date are inclined to be restless. This August 9 may bring you several agreeable surprises, and should prove a very happy one for you. Your financial condition may be due to have a decided change for the better. Important news of a gratifying nature may be received from a locally unexpected source. Matrimonial life is the logical one for you to lead, as the proper type of husband may prove an influence you need to help you to accomplish certain things which alone might prove difficult.

Children born on August 9 may require, when young, very careful supervision, especially regarding wearing apparel and diet. The parental care will be reflected in both its mental as well as physical development when it grows up. If a man and August 9 is your birthday, you possess the happy faculty of being able to adjust yourself readily to radical changes, especially in business. You should make a great success out of anything you undertake, if you will put your heart, soul and energy into it. Your domestic life should be an ideal one if you show your wife the proper amount of consideration.

The heavily-loaded machine sailed down the beach nearly a mile before it gained altitude and roared into the eastern sky. It carried 600 gallons of gasoline, a weight of 4,200 pounds. The total weight, including that of Ayling and Reid, was 7,350 pounds.

Although the flight was expected to take only sixty-five hours, the men carried sufficient food for at least four days. The menu was fairly elaborate. They had sandwiches, beans, roast pork, hard-boiled eggs, coffee, orange juice, apples, tomatoes, butter and brown bread.

Reid was at the controls as the

Stanley Bulley Concludes Popular Weekly Lecture Recitals at Cathedral

"Organ music has a texture of its own. The danger of some of the music written for the organ by modern composers is that they are getting away from the true organ idiom," Stanley Bulley, Cathedral organist, commented in the course of his fascinating lecture recital, last night, on "Contemporary English Organ Music." The recital brought to an end the interesting Summer series, which has attracted increasingly large audiences to Christ Church, that fact being appreciatively noted by the lecturer, who liberally illustrated his lecture material with examples of the works of Stanford, Robert Milford, Herbert Howells, Elgar, Vaughan Williams, Parry and others.

Mr. Bulley enthusiastically disputed the contention of many people, including musicians, that English organ music and the English composer of organ music were still very far behind those of the continent. Personally, he maintained that English composers of organ music could not be equaled by any other nation in the world, especially since 1900.

ABUNDANT MUSIC

That there was abundance of organ music in existence, he could attest with all sincerity after having tried, ever since his appointment here, to play nothing but music written for the organ. The average public, perhaps, had some justifications for thinking badly of organ music from the samples of "wobblings and shakings, whinnings and snortings" that they were accustomed to hear when they turned on the radio.

With the aid of little passages of illustrative matter played on the organ, Mr. Bulley demonstrated the effect of what he called "the thickening-up process" in organ composition, at the same time noting that the more "thickening up" there was, the more obscure would the music become, thus losing what should be the chief characteristic of organ music. The simplicity of Bach's compositions for the organ was cited, before reference was made to some of the work of contemporary composers, and the dividing of the organ into the modern harmonic effects.

Elgar's "Sonata," originally written for one of the brass band competitions held at the Crystal Palace, was not suitable for performance on the organ. It was contended, and anyone accustomed to the idiom of the organ would perceive at once that, although beautiful music, it was not written for "the king of instruments." It was the merging of the color schemes that gave the beauty to organ music.

MUSICAL TASTE

Musical taste, on the other hand, was the result of training and the time in which one lived. The student of the present day, when asked to select a favorite from several unnamed selections, invariably chose the modern music. In certain essentials, mankind expressed itself in the same way under the influence of certain emotions. But even there one had to recognize that nationality and race tempered or colored the expression of that emotion. So, in music.

As an illustration of the difference between the modern and the older type of music, Mr. Bulley described the Olympia as seen under the opposite atmospheric conditions of a dazzling clear day and a misty day.

Among the finer things that he offered his listeners last night were Stanford's "Sonata Heroica," written in memory of the fine stand made by the French at Rheims, the first movement introducing an old French carol, the second movement being of sterner character, and the third movement ("Verdun") recalling the heroic resistance of the French at Verdun; Robert Milford's "Choral Prelude," introducing the tune "St. Columba"; Herbert Howells' well-contrasted "Palm Parade," inspired by the Twenty-Third Psalm, and Elgar's "Second Sonata," introducing a toccata movement, a march grandioso, a fugue, and cadenza.

The victim of an accident glanced thoughtfully at the caller's card. "I think you're what they call an ambulance chaser, aren't you?" demanded the injured one. "That's rather a harsh name," replied the lawyer blandly. "Why not call me a settlement worker?"

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP).—A suit for $100,000 damages and a petition for an injunction to halt publication of pictures of the Dionne quintuplets, of Gallander, Ontario, were thrown out of court today by Judge Joseph B. David.

Judge David held that the quintuplets were world figures and that there was nothing wrong in any newspaper publishing pictures of them.

FEAR FURTHER RESTRICTIONS

German Churches Called Into Synod in Surprise Move

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP).—Without the knowledge of the general public, the National Synod of the German Protestant Church has suddenly been convened for noon tomorrow in "Prussenhof," former home of the Prussian Diet.

The invitations to members were issued by Reichsbishop Mueller Monday, about the time the nation was listening to Chancellor Hitler's tribute to the late President von Hindenburg.

EXPECT TROUBLE

Fears of the opposition element in the church that the President's death would be followed by further restrictive measures against them appeared to be realized sooner than expected.

According to German Christian (Nazi churchmen) sources, opposition delegates, if they attend, will not be allowed to raise their voices.

The Reichsbishop, church sources say, will propose passage of two fundamental laws of his Nazi followers, who absolutely dominate the synod.

St. Paul's Church Fete Is Outstanding Success

Army and Navy Lend Valuable Assistance at Delightful Party Held at Esquimalt Yesterday Afternoon and Evening

The garden fete held yesterday at the adjoining homes, on Lamson Street, of Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Rickard and Major and Mrs. Piddington, in aid of St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, was a particularly festive affair, and proved as great a success as last year's fete, which attracted so much attention. Between $300 and $400 was realized.

The afternoon was ideal for the party and the grounds had been most beautifully decorated with masses of flags, which had been loaned by the Royal Canadian Navy, at Esquimalt. All the stalls, arranged in tents, outlined the tennis lawn, while a huge marquee accommodated the tea guests, the tables bright with sweet peas and hyacinths.

In the centre was the house-holding ring, where Mrs. Quinn and A. B. Dunkley carried on a lively business, the benches being filled throughout the afternoon and evening with keen competitors. Fortune telling, coconut shies, a magic bowl, doll shies, quarts and croquet provided amusement and recreation for all tastes and there was not a dull moment during the entire day.

GOVERNOR ATTENDS
In opening the fete, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who attended with Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, recalled last year's party and wished the conveners an even greater measure of success. His Honor was introduced by Rev. Alan Gardiner, rector of St. Paul's. There vase Tokay, of the B.P.C.L.I., in grotesque chefs' costumes, did a thriving trade, their own enthusiasm proving irresistible to the guests.

Special attention had been given to amusements for the children and a corner of the garden was given up to slides, pony rides, merry-go-rounds and swings. Petty Officer Salter being kept busy arranging "turns" for his little patrons.

Major Piddington and the army had charge of the pony rides, which delighted the hearts of the youngsters.

BAND MUSIC

By kind permission of Major M. A. Kent, the band of the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade played an excellent programme of lively music, which added greatly to the general spirit of merry-making and enjoyment.

Petty Officer Hall and Lance Corporal Featherstone gave valuable assistance in charge of gate receipts. It was wholly due to the splendid co-operation of the army and navy that the affair was such an outstanding success, and the committee was specially grateful for the use of tents and equipment loaned by the army.

A delicious tea was served under the direction of Mrs. E. A. Barclay, who was assisted by members of St. Paul's W.A.

DANCE PROGRAMME
One of the most delightful features of the party was the dance programme arranged by Miss Grace Atfield, the first number in the afternoon being an umbrella dance, in which Elsie Robertson, Laura Peaker and Lona-Marie Atfield took part. This was followed by a doll dance by Muriel Marshall; an acrobatic dance by Laura Peaker; a spectacular butterfly dance by Grace Atfield, and a clown dance by Lona-Marie Atfield. In the evening, the Salter's Hornpipe was the special attraction, and in this Grace Atfield, Elsie Robertson and Lona-Marie Atfield appeared, and received enthusiastic applause. The Italian college girls' dance was another charming number, danced by Laura Peaker, Elsie Robertson and Lona-Marie Atfield.

The gardens looked most gay and attractive during the evening, with colored lights suspended from the trees, and the games and stalls were well patronized until a late hour.

It is good news to music-lovers of the city to be told that the Hart House Quartette has been engaged to give a recital at the Empress Ballroom on Monday, November 19. ## The Laughing Girl Mystery

By Viola Partridge

CHAPTER XI

At the District Attorney's office Joe Harrod was waiting for Alby. "Caswell replaced me at the museum right after you phoned," he reported. "I came back here and got busy on your instructions. Stevens is trailing Dinard. I cabled Scotland Yard for information about Marlin. And look at that," he added, indicating a sheet of papers in a desk tray, weighted down with the jeweled Florentine dagger.

"Quick work at the lab," said Alby, but postponed an examination of the tray's contents. "Any new developments at the museum?"

"No. Dr. Coe fell into a heavy sleep. They'll call us the minute he wakes. Higgins' men are on the job there. Higgins is for arresting the whole museum force. I ordered you some lunch," Harrod explained, as a man named Smith appeared with a tray of sandwiches and a pot of coffee.

"No time for sandwiches," said Alby. "But I'll drink this as I dictate. Ready?"

He sank wearily into his desk chair, for he had had neither food nor sleep since he had been called on this case last night. The coffee, however, picked him up, and he rattled off this morning's findings with speed, conciseness and yet a wealth of detail. A few conversations he summarized, but most he gave verbatim, for his mind was as accurate as a dictaphone.

"Now for these," he said, and pulled the desk tray to him. Too soon for much luck, I suppose, especially on a Sunday.

"Three swell pieces of luck," Harrod's eyes gleamed and Alby sat forward in his chair.

"First the report on this baby," Harrod picked up the dagger. "It's the one that did the job. And what a clue-catcher! It was washed with a well-known brand of colored soap, some of which obligingly snuggled in with as much of the blood as didn't wash off, right between the rubies and emeralds. So did some particles of wool. And paper. It was evidently wiped dry on one of those cleansing tissues."

"Who uses that kind of soap?"

"It's in the museum washroom. Also in Dinard's bathroom."

Alby gave a noncommittal grunt and poured another cup of coffee. "What else?"

"Plenty. The girl's English."

Alby set the cup down. "You located the florist? Good work!"

"I hitched four men to telephones. We took Dinard's tip and called only the best. Got the right one within half an hour. The clerk at Abalado's remembered an English lady, because they had a long conversation. He said the morgue now identifying her. He'll be here soon, said 'she' said she'd just arrived from England."

"Grand. That explains her silk-and-wool underwear. Check up on ships."

"It's being done. The Berengaria, the Majestic and the Paris all docked yesterday. Police headquarters are trying to locate ship's officers and stewards, and check up her description with the passenger lists. It may take a day or two though. But if it's the same girl, we'll be able to tell Mr. Dinard who the lavender eyes and short upper lip belonged to, which he doesn't know maybe."

"What else?"

"What about this!" Harrod almost purred as he handed Alby some typed sheets. "Imagine finding the Quapattuck grocery store manager as well as the florist on a Sunday! And the train conductor. The Cogges' alibi is perfect."

Alby's quick eye picked out the essentials of a four-page report.

"Terrence McKinnon, store manager, remembers Cogges couple distinctly yesterday. Mrs. C. came in about twelve, right after train arrived, as usual Saturdays. Says you can't forget her marketing. Haggles about price and weight. Often insists scales must be wrong. McK didn't remember Mr. Cogges coming in the morning, but his assistant, Joe Quigley, did. Also a neighbor, both McK and C. remember the afternoon shopping, because Cogges himself did the buying, and he and Mrs. C. argued whether it would be round steak or kidneys. Quigley wrapped up the round steak and Mrs. C. said, 'All right, Papa, but you can see for yourself it comes to two cents more than the kidneys,' so Cogges changed his mind, and had the kidneys wrapped. Then there was an argument about the weight."

"Time about six. Quigley, who lives next door to Cogges, in store at time, and drove out behind Cogges' car. Saw them turn into their driveway about 6:30. Picked up their verification by saw station in Quapattuck, where Cogges buys his gas. Says they left about 5:45. Cogges got out of car, and held hose up himself to make sure he got every drop of gas."

"Interviewed James Cling, conductor, who happened to be on both runs. Said Cogges used last two rides of fifty-trip ticket on way down, and on return trip last night paid cash for tickets. Queried about extra expense, claim blaming the other for having forgotten to buy a new trip ticket."

"Watertight, what?" Harrod said. Alby nodded, scowling.

Harrod grinned. "Yeah, too bad it's been sweet to hang it on those two old loads. And you really like Dinard."

"You agree with Higgins that Dinard's the man?"

"Look at the evidence. Don't you?"

"The evidence? Just as you can call it evidence—is just as black against Coe, Wilcox, or for all we know, Marlin. I'm keeping an open mind till we catch both Marlin and a motive."

"We can make a hot guess at a motive."

"What's your guess? Fire away?"

"O.K., boss. Let's go at it this way. An attractive young man, connected with a museum, has access to daggers. He also is familiar with the Twelfth Street house, and could readily know that the Cogges go away week-ends. Breaking into the Cogges' would be a cinch. He's engaged to be married. Suddenly—this is where the guessing begins—who turns up but this foreign fancy-dress dame, that he fell for maybe on one of those previous expeditions. She barges in just in time to stop the wedding bells. He's got to rub her out. Otherwise his latest romance and his reputation both crack up."

"A pretty long and elaborate guess."

"Not so long. At his apartment house they say he gets lots of foreign mail."

"So do we."

Harrod ignored the interruption. "Suppose he gets a letter from the girl saying she's arriving. He's got to think fast. The boat docks Saturday. He can't have her show up at his place. He cables her to come to the Cogges' straight from the boat. Gets there ahead of her, and lets her in—"

"Straight from the boat in fancy dress?"

"No. He's got the dress with him. Trumps up some cock and bull story about a masquerade party, and brings the dress with him."

"Which fits perfectly," Alby put in, his lip curling.

"Which fits perfectly. Though it wouldn't matter much if it didn't. But he knew her well enough to know the right size. This gives him a chance to destroy her regular clothes which might be identified."

"Go on."

"That statuette. He brings it with him. It suggests a way to hide a peep-hole and watch his chance of getting in and out. He's about to take it off the door, see, when the superintendent pops up into the hall."

"Go on."

"Well, maybe he starts fooling around with her, and she starts laughing, and he kills her quick to shut her up."

"He was the one to tell us about the laughing."

"Sure. Because somebody else might have heard it."

"You think a bright young man like Dinard would use a museum dagger and blaze a trail between the murder and the museum?"

"He's figure that you would figure just that way. What do you bet his lawyer uses that line of defence when the time comes?"

"Of course all this reasoning might apply to Coe or Wilcox as well as to Dinard."

"But not the motive. Besides neither Coe nor Wilcox went around talking about a blonde with lavender eyes and a short upper lip."

"You really believe the murderer would have deliberately described their girl he murdered to his fiancée?"

"I don't think he meant to. He's not a natural-born murderer. He probably got nervous. And when he dashed up the stairs and saw Miss Sayre, he probably just babbled. I'll bet he wishes he'd bitten his tongue out before he mentioned those lavender eyes!"

"Even if he's innocent, I've no doubt he regrets them."

"All the same, boss, you can't explain them away. And then there's the fact Miss Sayre herself half suspects him. Remember that conversation Stevens picked up at the skylight last night."

"Go on with your reconstruction of what you think was the crime. He killed her, wiped the dagger off and hid it, destroyed her hat, coat, bag, street clothes all in five or ten minutes."

"Who says it was five or ten minutes? He might have been an hour. We haven't got his afternoon programme. Besides, he's the one who established the exact minute of the crime—the minute the girl stopped laughing."

"The medical examiner—"

"Yes, I know. But no medical examiner would swear to the exact minute. A quarter of an hour leeway was all Dinard needed. He's naturally quick, and you can bet he doubted his usual speed."

"Go on, put the statuette in the museum shrubbery, and the dagger bag into a case on the second floor of the museum."

"The statuette's easy. The Ballard's where they were dining, at Park and Eighty-Ninth. What more simple than to have the taxi drive past the museum, and throw the statuette into the shrubbery from the taxi?"

"Rather difficult, without being noticed by either Miss Sayre or Wilcox. But not absolutely impossible. Now I'm interested in how you're going to get the dagger where we found it."

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THAT IMPORTANT ORGAN, THE LIVER

It is only natural that the heart is considered the most important organ in the body, because if it stops life passes away. Yet it is one of the simplest structures in the body, consisting only of muscle fibres, the nerves that cause these muscles to work, and the blood vessels which carry nourishment to and waste from these muscles.

The heart has only one duty to perform, that is to pump blood. Your doctor will tell you that the liver is the most important organ in the body from the standpoint of health. All the different jobs or duties of the liver are not really known, but Drs. D. S. McNab and E. F. Scarlett, Calgary, Canada, in The Canadian Medical Journal, outline those that have been fairly accurately established. Thus we find that the liver cells do the following:

1. Control the building up of glycogen (sugar) in the blood and the storing of sugar in the liver until the body has need of it.

2. Form urea, the solid waste from meat, eggs and other "nitrogenous" foods.

3. Form bile salts which, in turn, stimulate the liver cells to action again.

4. Form coloring matter for the blood.

5. Remove poisons or harmful elements from the blood.

6. Can hold 25 per cent of all the blood in the body in it at one time.

7. The liver structure may be reduced to one-sixth of normal and

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"E PLURIBUS UNUM"

"What is the meaning of the expression 'E Pluribus Unum' and why and how did it come to be the motto of the United States?" we are asked.

"E Pluribus Unum" means literally "out of many one."

The phrase, which is from Virgil's poem, "Moretum," was adopted as the motto of the United States by Franklin, Jefferson, and Adams on August 10, 1776.

These three stalwarts had been designated to choose a design for the seal of our country.

After a great deal of thought, and after giving consideration to countless suggestions, "E Pluribus Unum" was selected as being just right to describe the newly formed Government as a union of many States.

Romance and Wonder
Of Docks Challenged
By Modern Transport

Tour of Freight Department at Croydon Reveals Wide Variety of Air-Routed Merchandise for Many Destinations

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Much has been written about the romance and wonder of our London docks, with their fascinating sea-borne cargoes from many far-off lands. And now today, we have the thrill of the big modern airport with its traffic which passes high through the sky and which may vary from a load of gold from Africa to a crate of chicks for a poultry farm on the Continent, or from a spare part for a pumping plant on the Suez Canal to a box of toys for the children of a rajah in a distant Indian palace.

To tour the freight department at Croydon at the present time, and to talk to the experts one finds there is a revelation of the growing which is of air transport in all cases where it is urgent that time should be saved.

IMPROVE CONSTANTLY
"The facilities we offer improve constantly," explains an official of Imperial Airways. "Not only is air speed increasing, but the growth in the number of aircraft flying in and out of Croydon now enables freight to be handled even more expeditiously than was the case some time ago. Take the case of any firm in London which may ring us up to say they have an urgent consignment awaiting dispatch. The load is collected at once by one of our airway vans and brought direct to the airport, after which, thanks to the many outward-bound services now available, it starts its air journey immediately, and in a few hours has reached some point hundreds of miles distant across the Channel. Loads are in Paris in two and one-quarter hours, in Cologne in three and one-half hours, in Berlin in four and one-quarter hours, or in Zurich in just over six hours.

"Air freighters from Croydon connect at stations on the Continent with the departure of services for destinations still farther afield, which means that an increasingly wide network of routes is now being served. A consignment which is dispatched from London in the evening is, for example, delivered next morning at a point as far off as Copenhagen.

VARIETY OF LOADS
"Almost every kind of load is handled by air nowadays. The use of our all-engined machines, with their big freight compartments, enables us to deal with consignments of a size and weight which would have been impossible not so long ago. Among loads which figure frequently on our waybills are urgently-consigned fittings and spare parts for engineering plants. Many of these are rushed across to the Continent. Others go for thousands of miles along our Empire routes. They furnish convincing examples of time saving which is also money saving, seeing that the sooner these fittings come to hand the sooner some piece of machinery can be started again and be in profitable operation. So far as journeys along our Empire routes are concerned, the use of the air may mean that, instead of standing idle perhaps for weeks, a plant can be got going again in a few days, thanks to the swift arrival by flying mail of some essential part which has been cabled for from England.

"Films, wireless valves, and gramophone records, and also such articles as urgently-needed medicines, are often to be found among our loads. It is not only the speed of air transport which is so advantageous. Fragile, easily-damaged goods travel so much more safely by airway than by any other means. They need not be packed in any elaborate or expensive way. They are handled throughout with special care. Such savings in the matter of packing, and also the lower insurance rates which apply to airborne goods, are powerful arguments in favor of the flying routes.

SPEED KEYNOTE
"Finally, to summarize the position at the present time, what may be said is that freight transport by air now offers an established and ever-growing facility, augmenting dispatch by land or sea in all cases where time is the chief consideration. Today London finds itself linked by air with some 60,000 miles of Continental flying routes, regular air connections being provided with 150 cities throughout Europe, while our Empire lines now extend for 16,000 miles, with fifty or more stations dotted along the trunk routes to Africa, India, and the East. And the keynote of all this service is speed—speed not only in the air, but also in the ground organization, so that users of the services may obtain a maximum of time saving on every stage of an aerial journey."

SILK COSTUMES FOR EMPLOYEES
Japanese Government Finds Way of Using Up Surplus Stocks

"On your next trip to Japan, don't be surprised if you see a railway trainman and even section hands dolled out in silk from head to foot. In fact, wherever you see Government employees you are likely to find them, both men and women, outfitted in silk," the American Mail Line announces.

Unlike the ploughing under or burning-in-the-field methods of handling crop surpluses in America, the Japanese Government a year or two ago bought a considerable quantity of surplus raw silk in an attempt to control prices, and is now making it into wearing apparel for its employees.

There are around 200,000 employees on Government railways in Japan, and 70,000 of these have already been supplied with silk clothes at the Government's expense. The army also plans to put the soldiers into silk caps.

BADLY HIT
The silk industry in general has been pretty hard hit in Japan. The Spring cocoon is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 8.5 per cent less than last year, but prices are only about half of those the previous Spring crop brought. Much financial distress has been experienced in the large cocoon markets due to difficulties between the larger co-operative silk guilds and the banks.

Thus, with this year's crop short, and the soldiers and the railway workers using up the old surplus, it appears likely that milady in America and elsewhere will soon be paying more for her silk stockings.

Fishermen of Columbia River Talking Strike
ASTORIA, Aug. 8 (AP).—With considerable strike talk heard, Columbia River fishermen were gathered here today, for a meeting at which they were to decide whether to continue fishing operations after August 10, when, under a prearranged plan, packers will reduce the salmon price to 4 cents, from 6 cents a pound.

The price committee of the fishermen's protective union has been unable to reach any compromise in discussions with packers. The committee has definite instructions to demand that the six-cent price be continued indefinitely.

About 4,000 fishermen and cannery workers would be affected by a strike.

DUE IN FROM SOUTH PORTS

Niagara, Lochmonar and Emma Docking Today—
Three Ships Saturday

Latest advice received from the ship at the local office of Canadian Pacific Steamships, yesterday, stated that the Canadian-Australasian Ms. Niagara would reach William Head at 6:30 o'clock this evening. This should bring the liner alongside Rutherford Piers at 7:30 o'clock, an hour later.

The Ms. Lochmonar, of Royal Mail Line, North Pacific service, will dock alongside Ogden Point Piers at 7 o'clock this morning, inbound from United Kingdom ports.

SAILING SOUTH
The Pacific Steamship Lines Ms. Emma Alexander will sail from Rutherford Piers at 12 midnight, this date, for Seattle. She will arrive at the local dock at 10 o'clock from Wilmington and San Francisco.

From New York and way ports, the Grace Line Ms. Santa Paula is due here, on Saturday morning, at 8 o'clock. The local office reports a heavy passenger list aboard, a number of whom will land here. The liner will be here for three hours, being scheduled to continue to Seattle at 11 o'clock.

For the Philippine Islands, by way of Japan and China ports, the Canadian Pacific liner Ms. Empress of Russia will sail from Rutherford Piers at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The ship is due to dock here at 4 o'clock, to embark passengers, take on mail and general cargo.

FROM LANGLEY
Close to a thousand excursionists came to Victoria, yesterday, aboard the Union Steamship Company's Ms. Lady Alexandra, the occasion being the annual picnic of Langley Municipality. Among the excursionists were the reeve and members of the municipal council. The ship arrived in the Inner Harbor shortly before 1 o'clock, and sailed for White Rock at 5:30 o'clock.

Salmon fishermen averaged twenty fish to the boat as the run of sockeye salmon resumed on the Strait of Fuca and the Gulf of Georgia, and reached the Fraser River. A total catch of 20,000 fish was reported for the day.

To take on lumber for the United Kingdom, the freighter Steel Voyager arrived at Ogden Point Piers yesterday morning. She took 300,000 feet and was expected to shift to Tacoma during last night. The Anglo-Peruvian will get away today, and the Ogdendition Court probably on Saturday.

CREW VERY KEEN
"Even during the storm, Endeavour, under mainmast and misen, required no assistance from Vita. The amateurs of the crew are very keen and in high spirits. There was no sickness during the voyage. It was awkward during the storm, but the men came through it well."

Penny described the scramble for food at meal times, stating that "the food was more often on the floor than on the table and that it was next to impossible to stay in a bunk."

Sixteen men manned the Endeavour during the trip, he said, but the amateurs among them were transferred at the Azores. Those who had gone that far went aboard the Vita to be replaced by others, he explained.

Searchlights of H.M.S. Norfolk Were Spectacular at Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, July 8.—This city continued on its festive, Tuesday, in honor of the visit of the battle cruiser H.M.S. Norfolk. Many of the crew were motored by local citizens to Chemsalus, and conducted by guides provided by the company through the big lumber manufacturing plant.

During the afternoon the ship was thrown open to the public for three hours, and hundreds availed themselves of the opportunity provided to see a modern battleship at close range.

Later, Vice-Admiral Sir Reginald Drax and his officers entertained a large body of representative citizens on board at a banquet. As darkness fell, the townspeople were treated to a spectacular searchlight display and the beams of vari-colored lights played fantastic effects on the islands and on the neighboring mountains.

A huge crowd visited the farewell dance given last night in honor of the ship's visit.

The Norfolk left this morning for Comox.

PRINCE RUPERT, Aug. 8 (CP).—The first carload of frozen fish is being shipped today from the new cold storage plant of the Northern Fishermen's Cold Storage, Limited, on the Prince Rupert waterfront. British Society Assisted 37,000 Emigrants to Make Good in Canada

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—Concluding his forty-second visit to Canada, from Great Britain, Robert Culver, secretary of the British Dominions Emigration Society, returned home on the Cunard-White Star Line Ascania, from Montreal.

"I am impressed," declared Mr. Culver, in an interview, "with the improvement in Canadian business conditions over last year. There are many signs of material progress and a feeling of returning confidence among influential people I have met here this year. I feel that before long we shall have a greater opportunity of increasing the work of our society in the Dominion."

FOUNDED IN 1882
"The British Dominions Emigration Society was founded in 1882, by Prebendary Kilto. During these fifty-two years more than 37,000 have been assisted to emigrate, and the feature of the work I am most proud of is that we have never charged one cent interest on the money advanced. It is not surprising, therefore, though most gratifying to our society, to receive a commendatory letter from your Prime Minister, Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, paying warm tribute to our work, upon the occasion of our fiftieth anniversary. At the present time our work is almost entirely confined to the re-union of British families."

The society enjoys the high presidency of M.H.R. Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, and a list of distinguished vice-presidents, which includes the Most Noble the Marquess of Salisbury, K.G., G.C.V.O., the Rt. Hon. and Rev. the Lord Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. the Lord Lloyd, the Rt. Hon. Lord Middleton and Sir Archibald Weir.

Assistance to emigrants takes the form of grants or loans made under varying conditions to suit circumstances, to British-born subjects of good character and sound health; also of advice and help to settlers after their arrival.

Yacht Challenger

Endeavour Met Good Weather Crossing Atlantic
—Crew Said to Be in Fine Physical Shape
From Exercise and Discipline

BRISTOL, R.I., Aug. 8 (AP).—Endeavour, T. O. M. Sopwith's British challenger for the America's Cup, arrived here today, sail entrusted after sixteen days at sea.

Her long jaunt across the Atlantic, under her own sail—in compliance with the conditions governing the challenger in the international race—through the routine of immigration, health and customs inspections and was warped into a dock at the Herreshoff Yards. There work was begun immediately in preparation for the America's Cup races next month.

NO EXCITEMENT
The voyage from England was a crossing so perfect it lacked excitement, in the words of her crew. She was under the professional guidance of George Williams, as skipper.

Gerald Penny, a member of her afterguard, said the only stirring part of the voyage was during last week's storm. Just as it began to breeze up it was found necessary to take supplies from Vita, the big escorting yacht, to Endeavour. A lifeboat was launched, and although a nasty sea was kicking up, meat and vegetables were placed aboard within half an hour.

Describing the routine observed aboard Endeavour, Penny said:

EARLY AT WORK
"We turned the entire crew out at 8 o'clock every morning and scrubbed down the deck. After breakfast and a reasonable rest, we engaged in a course of difficult exercises, then helped with the ship's work."

"Ropes were rigged up with pressure to simulate what the men will do in actual sailing. There was a course in physical training each evening."

"The men fed like fighting cocks. All alcoholic stimulants were studiously avoided by everybody. Beer was the only beverage stronger than milk that anyone imbibed."

Penny declared discipline was splendid all the way across. "We would have been in Monday afternoon," Penny added, "if it had not been for the thirty-six hours of bad weather. Endeavour was under canvas nearly the whole trip. Although she was kept on a tow line from the Vita much of the way, she usually was sailing up on it."

CREW VERY KEEN
"Even during the storm, Endeavour, under mainmast and misen, required no assistance from Vita. The amateurs of the crew are very keen and in high spirits. There was no sickness during the voyage. It was awkward during the storm, but the men came through it well."

BURNSIDE PLAYERS REACH LAWN BOWLING FINAL

Canadian Fighters Run Into Disaster In Empire Battles

Maxie Berger, of Montreal, Drops Unpopular Verdict in Flyweight Final—Irving Pease, of Toronto, Loses Bout Through Knee Injury

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WEMBLEY, England, Aug. 8 (CP).—The first half of Canada's proud boxing brigade to see action in the British Empire Games received a body blow tonight. Three Canadians were summarily eliminated in their first bouts, one through an accident, and gallant little Maxie Berger, of Montreal, failed by the narrowest of margins to lift the flyweight crown.

There was rising hope that the wrestlers would win a majority of titles and give Canada at least an even break in the ring warfare that opened today and will continue until Saturday. Canada won every match championship at the first Empire Games, four years ago, and she started out impressively in every event in defence today.

But the boxers, faced with stern opposition in every division, had no luck. Berger won his way to the flyweight final only to drop a close decision to Joe Palmer, of England. It was a decision the English audience didn't like at all. The crowd thought the Montrealer had won.

DISASTER STRIKES

Irving Pease, Toronto welter, was on his way to a surprise win over England's Jack McLeave, rated the best amateur boxer in the British Isles, when disaster overtook the Canadian. Pease had the crowd cheering him as he put up a magnificent battle against McLeave for two rounds.

They were about even on points starting the third round and Pease launched a furious attack. The Briton was plainly rattled as the Toronto boy drove him back into the ropes, pounding him with both hands. Then Pease slipped and fell in his own corner and was unable to get up. He displaced a cartilage in his knee.

Lucky to win this fight, McLeave went on and earned a decision over

Ray Barton, of South Africa, in the welter final.

Berger fought impressively in beating Pottinger, of Wales, in the flyweight semi-final. The taller Welshman was soundly beaten as Berger ripped in close and scored with damaging blows to the body.

In the final against Palmer, the Montrealer was considered by many as unlikely to get the worst of a split decision. Berger attacked from start to finish, driving Palmer around the ring. The Englishman showed a fine defence and rallied spiritedly.

RALLIES TOO LATE

Sammy Tomlinson, of Toronto, convinced the crowd he had too much power for Jones, of Wales, but the Canadian put on his demonstration too late and lost the decision. Victory would have placed him in the final. Tomlinson fought defensively for two rounds, while Jones piled up points. In the third round the Toronto youth chased his foe all over the ring, but he could not erase all the deficit.

Tommy Osborne, of Montreal, lost to Holton, of Scotland, in the light-heavyweight division. It was a close, hard-fought battle, with Osborne always a shade behind his rival in points.

The wrestling corps battled 1,000 on the day, winning five preliminary bouts. Ted McKinley, of Toronto, pinned Reid, of England, in 2 minutes 12 seconds, in the bantam class, and Bob McNab, of Montreal, headed his debut by throwing Nelson, of England, in 10 minutes.

It took Joe Schlemmer, of Toronto, welterweight contender, 4 minutes to pin Allwood, of Scotland, and Terry Evans, of Toronto, spent 3 minutes 25 seconds before he flattened Bisset, of England, in the middleweight division. Heavyweight Pat Melghen, of Edmonton, got a fall over McGudgeon, of Scotland, in 10 minutes 43 seconds.

KEN FLEMING HITS HOMER IN 8-2 WIN

Outfielder Clouts Circuit With Bases Full in Sons' Victory

Ken Fleming's circuit smash to deep left field in the seventh inning with the bases loaded, was the feature of yesterday evening's Senior Baseball League fixture at the Royal Athletic Park, in which the Sons of Canada defeated the Poodle Dog Cafe nine, 8-2. It marked the second straight victory for the league leaders this week.

After two scoreless innings each club scored twice in the third stanza. In the fourth, the Canadians pushed over a lone marker and went out in front for the rest of the evening. They scored once again in the sixth and finished their scoring in the seventh, when Fleming collected a four-base hit from the offerings of Bill Holmes.

Tomorrow evening the Poodle Dog Cafe and the Tillamums will meet in the last scheduled fixture of the season. Following this game, the decks will be cleared for the playoffs, which open Monday evening.

Scene During Bowling Tourney

A scene snapped at the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club's greens at Beacon Hill, yesterday, during play in the men's doubles competition. The greens have presented a busy scene all week, with trundlers from all parts of the province competing in the annual holiday tournament of the Greater Victoria District Association. Peter Johnston and E. Myers, both of Burnside Club, reached the men's singles final yesterday, while Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Stewart will meet in the women's rinks final as a result of their victories yesterday.

Les Gibbons Scores 163 Runs as C's Win Berger Cup Fixture

Brilliant Exhibition at Bat Features Victory Over Hudson's Bay in Wednesday Cricket League—Pendray Bowls in Fine Style

With Les Gibbons, one of the leading local bats, knocking up 163 runs before being caught by Gibson, and W. H. Pendray, C's bowler, taking eight wickets for the small total of twenty-five runs, Five C's had an easy time winning from the Hudson's Bay eleven in a Wednesday Cricket League fixture yesterday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park. Going to bat first, the churchmen compiled the fine total of twenty-five, to which the Bays replied with forty-two.

Gibbons' 163, which is the highest score this season, saw the young batsman in his best form and hitting freely, giving no chance of being taken until caught by Gibson.

He has made many fine scores this year in Saturday and Wednesday League cricket, but the total he reached yesterday is expected to stand on the books for some time.

Pendray's bowling performance was also remarkable. Having a good length ball and bowling with deadly accuracy, the C's bowler played havoc with the Hudson's Bay batsmen, who found his deliveries puzzling. H. Hanson, of the lofers, was the only bat to reach double figures, contributing thirteen to his team's total.

In a friendly match at Mount Toimie, the Wanders defeated a team recruited from the Wednesday League by two runs, the final scores being: Wanders 124, Wednesday League 122.

MYSTIC MOON IN VICTORY

Takes Feature Race in Vancouver—Josella Pays Backers $114.50

VANCOUVER, Aug. 8 (CP).—Mystic Moon, brilliant three-year-old filly from the Meadowbrook Stable, closed fast to win the Landowes Derby, feature event on today's racing programme at Lansdowne Park.

Given a brilliant ride by Jockey Veselli, the Meadowbrook filly held in fourth place to the stretch, where she responded gamely to draw on even terms with Anceol, the pace-maker, and then moved ahead in the last few strides.

Overlooked by the punters, Josella graduated from the maiden class, in the five and one-half furlongs sprint in the opening race, to come in ahead of the field, and pay off at the second highest figures of the current season, $114.50 to win, $27.20 to place, and $12.50 to show.

Initial appearance here of Don Grinn's Longacre star, Trombone, was successful when the gelding, although bumped by Chief Almgren, the pace-maker, nosed out the latter in the seventh.

MALCEWICZ COMING FOR MAIN EVENT

"Utica Panther" Will Appear on Opening Wrestling Card Saturday Night

Joe Malcewicz, known to the wrestling game as the "Utica Panther," will return to this city, Saturday night, to do battle with Ivan Manigoff, Russian heavyweight, in the main event of Promoter Fred Richardson's all-heavyweight wrestling card, which will mark the return of the grappling game here after an absence of many months.

In the semi-main event, Joe Donovan, popular young mat man, will meet the "Masked Marvel," the unknown figure of the squared circle. A local preliminary will open the show at 8:45 o'clock.

FORMER CHAMP
Malcewicz has held the world's championship three times, yet has never actually been recognized as such. He first became the actual champion in 1919, right after he returned from overseas, where he served with the American forces.

Again in 1925 Malcewicz entered the ring as an unknown, in Boston, against Joe Stecher. The latter jumped from the ring and the referee gave the bout to the "Utica Panther" by default. Yet Malcewicz failed to capitalize on this event and claim the title held by Stecher.

In 1929, Malcewicz received the referee's decision over "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, in Tulsa, Oklahoma, being champion for the night, only to have the commission reverse the decision the following day.

In meeting Manigoff here, Saturday night, the "Panther" is facing one of the fastest and cleverest of the young heavyweight stars. Manigoff recently downed Gus Sonnenberg, in San Francisco, to score an upset, and to place himself in a position of being avoided by the champion and leading contenders.

Malcewicz was the only one who answered in the affirmative when offered a bout with the young Russian, Ray Steele, Dick Davis, Court, Bob Kruse and others refusing the bout.

The semi-final bout between the "Masked Marvel" and Donovan promises to be another good match. In climbing over the ropes to meet Donovan, the masked mat man meets another of the up-and-coming youngsters who are creating so many upsets in the wrestling world today, and it may be that the fans of Victoria will be the first to see the "Masked Marvel" unmasked and his true identity revealed.

With a bout of local interest to round out the card for Saturday night, Promoter Richardson believes the show will attract a crowd of capacity size, as the interest in the heavyweights has again gone ahead by leaps and bounds since Jim London downed Jim Browning, in New York, early this summer, to become the recognized champion of the world.

Stocks Gain and Bonds Recede at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP).—Stocks shifted direction today and rallied moderately as a broad advance in commodities continued.

Speculative interest converged upon leading farm commodities, but the sight of rising grain, cotton, and other and hog prices also exercised some influence upon the stock market.

Although reports of drought devastation in the West were still depressing, rapid appreciation on values of leading farm products impressed some observers as likely to go far in offsetting losses in farmer purchasing power this fall.

Rail, mail order and farm implement groups, which had been sold on appraisals of the drought losses, rallied briskly for a time, partly in reflection of a stronger technical position.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for ninety stocks rose 9-10 of a point to 70.1. Volume expanded moderately to 69,020 shares compared with 68,510, yesterday.

Principal activity was on the selling side of the bond market again today, and virtually all classes of loans finished lower, especially carrier and utility issues.

Transfers approximated $14,113,000 per value.

The foreign exchange was without important change.

WHEAT HOLDS SMALL GAINS

Futures Continue Firm at Winnipeg With Selling Pressure Absent

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8 (CP).—Wheat prices held firm within a small fraction of the dollar-a-bushel mark on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, to close with gains of 7-8 to 9-8 cent.

Top figures were only 1-8 cent away at the close, where October held at 94-1/2, December at 94-3/8 and May at 93-3/8 to 93-1/2 cents.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were on the slim side, but there was little or no pressure to sell, and the market was easily influenced by outside factors.

With world demand expected to be greater this season than last year, when it amounted to only 520,000 bushels, Broomhall has made his first preliminary estimate of export requirements for 1934-35, giving Canada a liberal share of the market.

World requirements he figures at 576,000 bushels, with the demand filled as follows: Canada, 288,000; United States, 8,000; Argentina, 160,000; Australia, 96,000; Danube and France, 24,000 bushels.

Cash grain trading was quite appreciable, with spreads on the top grades about 1-4 cent better. Coarse grains ascended with wheat.

Virginia Vane Says:

MARRIED LIFE WITH THE IN-LAWS
Dear Virginia Vane: I am twenty-one years of age and have been engaged to a girl for the past six months.

I was raised by my two spinster aunts who have done everything in the world to help me. They have done more for me, I believe, than any mother could have done. Their financial position is such that if I were to take a home of my own they would hardly be able to exist—I mean this literally.

When I first discussed the situation with my fiancée she was willing to try living with my aunts. But her mother has assured her that she would be destroying all hope of future happiness for both of us if she came to live in our home. She refuses now to give this proposition a trial.

Is there no chance for a bride to have a happy life with her in-laws?—Bewildered.

Don't try to look at the problem from the point of view of who's right and who's wrong. Because that sort of thinking will work you up into a state of real resentment against your sweetheart and her mother.

The facts are these: You have a definite obligation toward your aunts. You could find no peace of mind or happiness in a marriage which caused them to want the ordinary everyday necessities of life. Therefore, you very naturally suggest that your bride make her home with your two guardians.

And your fiancée at first agrees to this, because she is in love and she wants to marry as soon as possible. It's only after she's done a good deal of thinking and conferring with her mother that she begins to raise objections.

She knows probably—and you know, too, if you tell yourself the truth—that this "trial" stay in the aunts' home is very apt to become a permanent arrangement. You can't help to support the two women for a certain period of time, and then finding that your wife can't stand the strain, more gaily out leaving your aunts to get along without you.

Such an experiment is dangerous. For if you discover that even the kindest older women in the world are apt to give a new wife an unpleasant time, you'll be in the position of having to decide between the two who have protected you all your life—and the girl who has given her life into your keeping.

Perhaps that is why your fiancée's mother is presenting all the difficulties of this arrangement in the most uncompromising light possible. She wants her daughter to understand what lies ahead of her if she arranges to live with two elderly women who have spent their lives bringing up her husband.

What's the use of blinding yourself to the unpleasant possibilities. We have talked often in this column of the situation between mother and daughter-in-law. We have agreed that it is only human nature for the mother to want to boss the house which she has run satisfactorily all her life—and that it is more than human nature can endure for any young wife to feel that some other woman knows more about taking care of her husband than she does.

We've also agreed that it is bad for both husband and wife to get used to living in somebody else's house. Newly married people should be alone. They should work out their problems together. There should never be the danger that older people, living with them might step in and attempt to arbitrate between them.

Furthermore, the girl who gets used to being a guest in the house of her husband's relatives is seldom an efficient housekeeper or an enthusiastic home-maker. She is too often a rebellious and incompetent helper. Because she takes no pride in the home which belongs to someone else, she lets down on the job.

So that mother is right when she warns her daughter that marriage into the home of in-laws presents untold difficulties.

Now it's up to the girl to decide whether her own strength of character can surmount those difficulties. You can do nothing more to persuade her. Indeed it wouldn't be fair of you to argue her over to your side. She must see the situation clearly—go into the partnership with her eyes open.

And you mustn't blame her or accuse her of loving you too little because she hesitates. Neither you nor she will be happy under the conditions on which you propose to start marriage life—unless your wife has made certain within herself that she is prepared for dealing with the in-law situation in all its phases.

Be tolerant and understanding. Give the girl a chance to make up her mind. I personally would advise your waiting until your financial position is more secure—so that you could have a home of your own—and contribute something to your aunts' support. But if waiting is out of the question you must accept your sweetheart's decision as final. She can only do what she believes will be best for both of you. And many a woman has had to decide against her own happiness rather than risk a marriage which started under too heavy a handicap.

H.M.: At the risk of incurring your deep displeasure I am going to ask you to make all the friends you can as quickly as possible. The man on your mind is too old for you. It's not that the difference in ages is so vast—but that you are so very young just now. You ought to be running around with boys in their very early twenties.

This preoccupation of yours is unhealthy. It isn't the right kind of love. It hasn't had a chance to be. Do try to get yourself into a more normal frame of mind—even though it hurts—just so that you can have a better perspective on your problem.

Go ahead and make friends with young people. Resolutely rule romance out of your life until you're better able to deal with it. Good luck to you.

RABBIT BREEDING IS LECTURE TOPIC

Charles Woolley Delivers Informative Address Before Local Association

An informative and interesting address on the breeding of rabbits was delivered to members of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association by Charles Woolley, president, at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday night.

Most vital in breeding is the need to keep rabbits sanitary by washing utensils with linsolene, the speaker said. After arrival of the young, it is advisable to conserve the strength and vitality of the doe by taking her away during the day. In dealing with the question of sterility, Mr. Woolley explained that it could be caused by the lack of new blood, leaving the doe too long before breeding, or over-fatness of the buck. The best average age for breeding is from six to nine months, he said.

Breeders should always keep the best stock for themselves, and in breeding should keep to type, in shape, length, weight and color, the speaker went on. In conditioning the animals, attention must be paid at least six weeks before exhibiting, and good food used, such as wheat, oats and carrots.

Association officials are anxious to receive all entries for the Fall show at an early date, it was announced.

TWO REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

John Renaerts and Darrell Pringle Are Convicted in City Police Court

In the city police court, yesterday, Magistrate Jay found John Renaerts and Darrell Pringle guilty of being in possession of goods taken from the motorboat of H. I. McKenzie, knowing the same to be stolen. The goods included a radio and a quantity of clothing, blankets, pillows and other articles which had been left on his launch by Mr. McKenzie. The latter testified that the staple, which locked the door of the boat, had been broken by those who ransacked the craft.

Jack Lampert, who was also accused in connection with the offence, had his case dismissed by the court.

With respect to the two against whom convictions were secured, the magistrate reserved sentence until this morning.

FOUND ON RONAKI

The evidence taken at the proceedings, yesterday, showed that the articles concerned in the charges were on board the boat of Mr. McKenzie as it lay in the waters of the Gorge, opposite the auto camp, on Friday. Chief Allan Rankin, on Monday, brought the goods to his house, as a result of an investigation made by the chief and Constable H. P. Hughes, of the Provincial Police force. Most of the goods were found on the launch Ronaki, which was a rendezvous for a number of young men from time to time.

A bundle of clothing taken from the boat of Mr. McKenzie was found in the home of H. G. Pringle, the father of one of the boys charged. Mr. Pringle knew nothing of how the goods came to his house, but testified that Renaerts had come to his place with his son and had spent one night there.

Of the accused, only Lampert gave evidence. He accounted for his movements and testified to never having slept on the boat. He said Renaerts told him, when he asked about the goods which he saw on the Ronaki, that he had been left there by his father, who had died some time before. John Milne, grandfather of the accused Lampert, also testified as to the movements of the boy, who lived with him, and said he spent every night at his home.

COUNSEL PLEADS

P. J. Sinnott, who appeared for Lampert and Pringle, pleaded that the former could not be said to have had anything to do with the goods. The evidence as to Pringle, he contended, while not as clear, was capable of being interpreted as showing that he was not guilty of the offence. Mr. Sinnott argued that the evidence pointed to Renaerts, who was the oldest of the group, being the one who had unlawful possession.

C. L. Harrison, while ready to admit that Lampert might be innocent, was satisfied that the other two were in unlawful possession. The court decided Lampert should be discharged, and reserving sentence in connection with the other two.

Her Partner: "If you are tired of dancing, Mrs. Newrock, we will sit down and have a little tete-a-tete." Mrs. Newrock: "Oh, dear me no, after such a big supper I really couldn't eat anything."

Ottawa Area Struck by Windstorms

MUCH damage was done in Ottawa and district when a terrific storm hit the city, paralyzing traffic, tearing down communication wires, uprooting trees, etc. No one was reported seriously injured by the storm, but the cost will be reckoned well up in the thousands. The layout shows some of the scenes that confronted citizens after the blow. Upper right, a telegraph pole with the top knocked off. Centre, a huge tree uprooted by the sudden blasts of wind. Left, the roof of a building which fell on a passing car, burying it completely. Five persons in the car at the time escaped injury. Many were the peculiar incidents reported by Ottawans during the storm's height.

HEAR ADDRESS ON PERENNIALS

Members of Horticultural Society Listen to Suggestions by President Whiteoak

A highly educational address on "Perennial Borders" was given to fellow members of the Victoria Horticultural Society by H. Whiteoak, president, Tuesday night in the City Hall.

Deep digging and good drainage were emphasized as the first necessity by the speaker. Three feet was given as the preferable depth.

Mr. Whiteoak advocated a rich, mellow loam as the most suitable for planting the perennials. He also recommended the application of lime on heavy soil. This would tend to mellow the ground.

"For the border to be of any great success, it is preferable to have it facing south," Mr. Whiteoak said. Various times to expect different specimens were given. Seeding perennials should never be planted out after October, he declared.

Mr. Whiteoak strongly urged group planting and a proper system of watering during hot dry weather.

REFUSES BID FOR CIVIC UTILITIES

Courtenay Aldermen Decline Offer From Vancouver Concern to Operate Public Services

COURTENAY, Aug. 8.—Routine business occupied a regular meeting of the City Council Monday night, with the Mayor and all aldermen present.

Messrs. Bird and Talling of Vancouver, wrote enquiring for particulars of electric light, water and sewerage systems with a view to acquiring franchise for the construction, maintenance and operation of these utilities for clients.

The enquiry will be answered, pointing out that the utilities are owned and operated by the city of Courtenay and are not for sale.

A resolution received from the city of Kamloops, which met with the approval of the Council, was one that would amend the Municipal Act, Section 362, so that municipalities would be chosen and recommended by the municipalities before being appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor.

These offices would, however, be subject to cancellation by the Lieutenant-Governor. This will be one of the resolutions to come before the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Kamloops on Wednesday, October 3.

A lengthy brief from the cities of Victoria and Vancouver, addressed to Hon. D. T. Pattullo and the Executive Council of British Columbia, objecting to imposing the heavy costs of existing social services on the land, by means of taxation, is another matter which was before the council and will be considered at the October convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

A resident of Mexico City has attained the ripe old age of 112 years. Locally, it is considered that he must be bullet-proof.

DUNWELL MINE IS IMPROVING

R. M. Stewart, Manager of Property, Gives Optimistic Report as to Conditions

Recent information obtained from the offices of Dunwell Mines, Limited, shows great improvement in the production. It was pointed out by R. M. Stewart, manager of the company, that three products are now being sent out. The ore is going to Granby at Anyox, and concentrates and high-grade ore to Tacoma, the combined products amounting to approximately $10,000 per month net smaller returns. Cost of mine and mill operation, with supplies, amounts to approximately $3,000. Ore reserves are ample.

This is being further augmented by bringing in another sulphide vein, namely, the "George E." and also the "Ben All." which is practically a high-grade straight gold ore. Generally speaking, the management is well pleased with results so far obtained in the short time since production started.

All power is being supplied from the company's own hydro-electric plant, which, early in the Spring, was completely rehabilitated, and the benefit accruing to the company from this source equals more than $800 per month, which would have been the cost if the power had been purchased from the power company.
